MI 449 Final Project Statement

This single-page website is designed to help people easily look up the weather any point on the world map seamlessly. The website is built using Google Maps API for the map design and Open-Meteo API for the weather information. The user can move the map and select any point they want and the current weather data for the selected point will be displayed below the map.

Weather Map

Map

Weather Data